From the desk of our Pastors . . .

It was very exciting for me to see the successful launch of the Space X Falcon over the past weekend from the same complex at Kennedy Space Center that was the site for the Apollo 11 liftoff. What was most interesting to me however was not the fact that the flight went so well but that the rocket reentered the atmosphere and landed back in perfect position. The engineering, science and technology that it took to make that happen boggles my mind.

Humanity is capable of so much. We put people and machines into space. Our work to improve medical technology and pharmaceuticals is keeping people safer and helping them live longer. I could spend hours documenting our advances in all types of industries and areas and still not come close to making a comprehensive list.

But as much as we have done we can't hold a candle to all that the Lord has done and can do. We may visit the stars but He created the stars. We study medicine to learn how to heal people and yet God is the great physician, capable of healing anything if it be His will. We educate ourselves and spend years learning but will never have even the smallest amount of wisdom that the Creator has.

How very wonderful is it that God is the Great I Am and the source of all power, wisdom and strength and yet He also loves us with such tenderness and mercy that He sent His only Son? We are a blessed people.

In Exodus 3 the Lord appears to Moses at the burning bush and Moses is called to deliver Israel from bondage and the Lord identifies Himself for all generations. In Exodus 3:14 it reads, "And God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM, and He said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you."

Let's give glory to God that He is the Great I AM in our lives.

On Sunday, February 26th the Dixieland Band will be playing at the 11:00 a.m. service.

Listen to your Heartbeat

Many years ago, my son, Eli, took dance lessons. He had seen his sister dance and wanted to dance, too. He participated in the classes for about seven or eight years, beginning when he was four. One day after school, he did not want to go to dance class. He was not sick and since we paid for the class, I wanted him to go. But, I knew "making" him go would not help. He might then go to class, but not participate.

So, I told him that sometimes eating dark chocolate helped me face a difficult task. I had Doves dark chocolate, which comes in individually wrapped pieces, making it easier to control portions. (To this day, I eat three small Dove pieces a day, usually in the afternoon.) The wrappers of these pieces have a saying printed on the inside. I gave him a Dove chocolate, which distracted him and calmed him down. He looked at the wrapper and laughed! The inside read: "Listen to your heartbeat and dance!" He ate his chocolate and went to dance class. We still laugh at this story and at God's sense of humor, allowing Eli to open that particular piece of candy.

I remember that story around Valentine's Day, when the culture celebrates love with the symbols of hearts. St. Valentine served as a priest in Rome in the middle of the third century and would perform marriages for couples. After the ceremony, he would help them escape Rome because of the persecution under Emperor Claudius II. Initially, Claudius like Valentine and let him live. But, Valentine loved the Emperor enough to tell him the ultimate love story of God's love for us in Jesus Christ. For Claudius, this attempt at conversion crossed a line. So, he had Valentine beaten with clubs and finally beheaded on February 14, 269. Valentine, as a martyr, became the patron saint of love and we celebrate his death on February 14 every year with hearts. However, his story reminds us of the sacrificial nature of love, a willingness to give up even one's life for another, the way Jesus laid down his life out of love for us.

Jesus invites us into that deeper place of love for each other, where we willingly lay down our own claims in order to give and receive life in its fullest. In his farewell address to the disciples in John 15, Jesus commands us: "This is my commandment: love each other just as I have loved you. No one has greater love than to give up one's life for one's friends." (Verses 12 and 13.) That kind of love cannot be accomplished through human effort alone, which is why, throughout the address, Jesus reminds us that the Holy Spirit will live in us and with us. Through the power of the Holy Spirit within us, we can strive to live that same kind of sacrificial love.

Knowing that Jesus loves us thoroughly and unconditionally also helps us live that love. The Celts have an interesting spirituality built around experiencing that love by listening for the heartbeat of God. Phillip Newell, in his book, Listening for the Heartbeat of God: a Celtic Spirituality, describes a tradition of understanding John as hearing the heartbeat of God when he leaned back onto Jesus. (See John 13:23-25.) I love that image of leaning against the chest of Jesus to hear God's heartbeat. In many ways, that image defines one of the most profound aspects of prayer: listening to God's voice instead of merely telling God what to do to answer our prayers.

When we listen to God's heartbeat in prayer, we continue to hear Jesus' invitation to love others as he loves us. God will often give us very concrete means to love in that way. We will hear that we need to apologize to someone, or that we need to extend another person grace, or that we need to be an answer to someone else's prayer by taking specific action. Maybe that is why we find it so hard to listen in prayer: we may not want to hear what God is asking us to do.

Often God helps us to hear best through other people. The gift of community allows us a safe place to listen to what God might be calling us to do and community strengthens us with the courage to answer that call. We have several opportunities to practice that community coming up in our Conference, listed in the announcements throughout this email. We have a Young Adult Summit, offered by our Conference Council on Young Adult Ministries in partnership with Strengthening the Black Church. The theme "Loving Out Loud" (#LOL) will link prayer and social action (the inner and outer holiness John Wesley described) and the event will provide an opportunity to listen to the heartbeat of God. We also have the Bishop's Lenten Day Apart for clergy, where we will learn about how connecting with our communities can revitalize our churches, and so help others hear the heartbeat of God. We also have an Evangelism Event coming up in April, featuring Heather Leer, from the General Board of Discipleship, who will teach us some strategies for sharing God's love in the current cultural environment. And we have the Confirmation Rally, where youth can explore the process of salvation and discover how they can nurture their spirits to hear God's heartbeat.

I also invite you to renew and continue your commitment to prayer. If you are not sure how to listen in prayer, ask your pastor or call the Conference Resource Center. As we listen together, may we also hear the heartbeats of one another and learn how to love each other sacrificially. What would it mean for conservative and liberal and progressive Christians (and everything in between) to love the other (our enemy?) sacrificially? What does God invite us to let go of, to give up, to sacrifice, in order to love one another? How can that loving across "walls that divide us" be a witness to our divided world? What is God calling YOU and your church to do?

When we learn to live this way, loving across boundaries, we will truly be "Connected Christians offering the hope of Jesus Christ to today's world," which is our conference vision. But, only as we listen to God's heartbeat in Jesus Christ, through the power of the Holy Spirit living in us, can we ever hope to hold hands and dance with each other, even our "enemies." And once we begin to live in that dance, we can invite others to join us.

Blessings on the journey,

Vicki

Greetings from your Global Ministries Missionaries! We've created a video with many more visuals so please feel free to watch the video version of this newsletter available at: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=OuVdLEVBY-E

"Give all your worries to Him because He cares for you." 1 Peter 5:7 (NLV)

Have you ever made plans thinking you were going in the direction God wanted you to go and then, suddenly, challenges surfaced everywhere and you wondered if you were really doing what God wanted?

This has happened to us so many times with the Cataract Surgery Mission we've had planned now for several years. It seems like "our plan" was quite different from God's plan! For example, OUR plan was for the mission to take place in July 2016 only to discover that the political situation in Congo prohibited getting Visas for the medical team coming from the US. We truly struggled with needing to postpone that mission because already people had traveled hundreds of kilometers, many of them blind, for the mission and we had to postpone! The medications took many months to arrive by boat arriving AFTER the proposed date for the 2016 mission!

Both of us being a bit detail-conscious, we have struggled with these changes. There have been so many moments when we have had to quote Psalm 59:16 "But I will sing of your strength, in the morning I will sing of your love; for you are my fortress, my refuge in times of trouble."

And God responds, "In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world" (John 16:33, NIV).

So, we planned the Cataract Mission for July 2017 believing this was now God's plan. Last week a troubling email arrived this week from the US team signed up to conduct the Cataract Mission in July 2017. Many factors had led them to decide they could not travel to Congo this summer! Okay, Lord! Now what? Their hearts and our hearts are broken! What can we do?

After the immediate panic passed, we kept hearing God say "move forward". We knew that the Congolese people possess the skills and professionalism to conduct the mission without clinicians from another country. But would we have sufficient staffing? Could we financially afford to provide the staff and all the travel and logistical challenges?

Well, God is good! A quick phone call to the Ophthalmology Director at St. Joseph's University Hospital which specializes in ophthalmology in Kinshasa, resulted in an appointment for the following day! It's typically very difficult to secure an appointment that quickly! Not only did we meet a surgeon who specializes in pediatric ophthalmology who is eager to join the mission team, but the Director also agreed to provide an additional surgeon, an anesthetist and whatever medical equipment and medications are needed! We believe this is God's way of helping the Partnership turn over this mission and the future of providing eye care in Congo to the Congolese people! That has been our goal and now God is opening new doors to help this happen!!

God's message was very clear:

We kept repeating the mantra used in some of the Congolese local churches here when the worship leader shouts, "God is good!" and the people respond, "all the time". And the pastor says, "All the time" and the people shout, "God is good. That is God's nature! Wow!!!"

So, what's next? Pray! Please pray for all the challenges yet to be faced. So many of you have already generously given to this mission but now we need your support as the budget has now increased due to these changes. You may wonder that without paying for international travel how could the costs multiply? When Americans, and people from other countries travel to developing countries to participate as volunteers in mission, they pay their own expenses and donate their time which is often paid vacation or leave time. However, in Congo, when anyone leaves their current position to take part in a mission, their salary (which is much lower than in the US) stops during that time. Because the Partnership does not desire to jeopardize the lives of anyone financially, the Partnership provides a stipend for each clinician, as well as accommodations and transportation. So, we need to raise approximately $5,000 to cover all these expenses.

The medical team from the US already gave a generous donation to help with these additional expenses because they believe so deeply in our mission and want to be with us in Congo so badly. Thank you, Dr. Kris, Dr. Louie, and Pastor Charles! God is still using them.

Even with the additional expense, the cost for someone who is blind to have their sight restored through cataract surgery is $100!!! Compare that to the same procedure in the US! We encourage you to visit the Partnership website at www.Congo-Mission.org for information on how to submit donations.

Together, we are the Body of Christ! The next time you face a challenge, we hope our story will remind you that, through Christ, our difficulties are transformed into blessings!

"Call to me and I will answer you and tell you great and unsearchable things you do not know" (Jeremiah 33:3, NIV)
